

F.E. Newsletter

April 2009

Students in F.E have been busy this half term, being involved in a range of exciting projects.

Restaurant Evening Students undertaking the Team Enterprise module recently planned and ran a restaurant evening. The students decorated the room, prepared their tables, served a three course meal, took drinks orders and led their guests to their seats. The evening was a great success and all students have worked hard to practise their waiting on and communication skills. A big thank you to Fone for Flowers and Marks and Spencer who kindly donated raffle prizes. Students were delighted to receive their wages in return for their hard work the next day.

Visit to Lancaster and Morecambe College Students studying careers have been to visit Lancaster and Morecambe College. They listened attentively to a presentation by the support advisor and enjoyed a tour of the college. An enjoyable afternoon was had by all.

Presentations about Authors

In Literacy this term, students have been studying different authors. Each class delivered a presentation related to the author the author and books they had studied to the rest of F.E. We all now know lots of information of the author J.K Rowling, Jacqueline Wilson, and Anthony Horowitz.

Holi celebrations

School recently celebrated the Hindu festival of Holi. During this festival we learnt that it is tradition to wear bright colours, and throw brightly coloured paint over each other to welcome in Spring time. FE students painted each others faces, made colourful garlands, performed a Hindu dance and played authentic Indian music on a variety of drums.

Duke of Edinburgh

The group of students currently studying for Duke of Edinburgh have completed their service hours and are now practising for the expedition trip. Students are learning to put up tents and cook on a camping stove. 'It is fun and exciting' says Rosie.

Social Enterprise/ Team Enterprise

The Social Enterprise group raised £155.00 which was donated to the RNLI by organising and holding a Mother's day sale. Presents were donated for the sale and students made Mother's day cards to sell. Well done to everyone involved

Work Experience

A huge congratulations to Jenny Threlfall who has recently completed one weeks work experience at Bay View Gardens in Bolton-le-sands. Not only did Jenny travel to and from her work placement independently by public transport, she also managed to complete her placement without any support from the Loyne Staff. This is a fantastic achievement Jenny you should feel very proud.
